LEGUMES IN ORCHARDS.
Progressive Fruit Growers Everywhere Now Recognize Their Value as Fertilizers.

For fertilizing orchards the value of some of the leguminous plants is admitted, though they are not yet in general use. The details of their growth, cultivation and utility are subjects for study and consideration, that we may learn how and when to use the different varieties to the best advantage. Their roots penetrate deep into the soil, making it more porous and decompose more or less of the hardest substances with which they come in contact. The roots also support bacteria which have the power to change the free nitrogen of the air into plant food. The thick epidermis of the leaves prevents rapid evaporation from their surfaces, the heavy foliage shades the ground, checking the loss of moisture by the direct action of the sun and wind, at the same time keeping the temperature of the soil at a lower point through the hot months than if cultivation was used.

The cow pea is the more generally known, and different methods of cultivation are practiced. The common plan in this locality is to plow the land, harrow it once or twice and plant the seed with a wheat drill or double row with a corn planter, then leave the crop to take care of itself. Sometimes the seed is sowed broadcast on freshly plowed land and harrowed in, there is always some of the seed lost by this method in a dry time. After the plants are strong enough to resist the teeth of the implement in use, they might be harrowed or gone over with a weeder to advantage.

I claim better results are obtained by thorough preparation of the seed bed, then planting in rows, about three inches apart, and cultivating shallow, keeping the surface level until they shade the ground. I think the difference in yield is more marked on poor land than on land well supplied with humus, even then the seed saved and the benefit to the soil of good cultivation is worth considering. Planting this way one bushel of seed will be sufficient for four to six acres. The seed should not be planted until the ground is in condition to germinate it without delay. The cow pea is from a warm climate and the seed will rot sooner than corn in a cool, damp soil.—A. A. Hinchey, in Farmers' Review.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.
All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble. Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble. If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Write for it free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Cafeterian
CURES HEADACHE
AND IT STAYS CURED.
Cafeterian contains caffeine and valerian, the two greatest specifics for hysterical, nervous and brain disorders ever known. Valerian, though the oldest and most favorable known treatment for these afflictions, has for many years fallen into practical disuse on account of its odor and taste. By a newly-discovered process it is rendered, in Cafeterian, absolutely odorless and tasteless. Caffeine has no objectionable characteristics. It is curative of nervousness, but a scientific system, invigorates the mind, relieves mental exhaustion and cures insomnia, nervousness and nervous dyspepsia. It is harmless and may be taken freely, but a single grain requires more than one dose. It contains no morphine, cocaine, opium, phosphorus, or any other dangerous drug. It is prepared by a reputable and sea-sickness and nausea. It is particularly beneficial to those who lead sedentary lives. Those who keep late hours or who have imbibed indelicately will find Cafeterian just the remedy needed to stop the headache and brace the nerves for the duties of the day. Cafeterian is sold as an effervescent salt or as a liquid at drug stores and soda fountains.

At all drug stores and soda fountains. Trial bottle 10 cents.
